

I'm not a robot
reCAPTCHA

Continue

Maquis board game ios

Picture: Tim Noack/Moment/Getty Images Before the internet, there were a few things I could do on rainy days or when I was stuck at home. If I was lucky enough to have a brother (or a babysitter who was hiring), I could play board games when I was bored. Simply put, board games are amazing in theory: everyone gets together and have fun playing a game ... that is, until someone starts to cry because they lose or someone starts cheating because they are the older brother and the younger brother can't say anything. So while board games may have the side effect of great family fun, they can also lead to rivalries and arguments that stretch decades - but who is counting? If your family had a game rack (or a games room), you can probably recognize almost every family board game that was popular when you were a kid. However, if your family was serious gamer family (before gambling became electronic, of course), you can probably name every board game that was ever made. Let's see if you have what it takes to beat the rest. Take this test to find out if you can identify all these board games (but we'll warn you, some of these games are pretty obscure). TRIVIA can you identify these Disney movies from a single frame? 7 Minute Quiz 7 Min TRIVIA You know these games at the price is correct? 7 Minute Quiz 7 Min TRIVIA Can you name 40 of the most famous cartoon characters of all time? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Can you name Disney Live-Action Movie from a screenshot? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Can you complete these Disney movie titles? 6 Minute Quiz 6 Min TRIVIA Can you guess the most popular movies of all time from Plotline? 7 Minute Quiz 7 Min TRIVIA 91% of people can't name these Sci-Fi and Fantasy Movies from a single image! Can't 7 Minute Quiz 7 Min How much do you know about dinosaurs? What is an octane assessment? And you're using a proper noun? Luckily for you, HowStuffWorks Play is here to help. Our award-winning website provides reliable and easy-to-understand explanations about the world's work. From fun quizzes that bring joy to your day, to compelling photos and fascinating lists, HowStuffWorks Play offers something for everyone. Sometimes we explain things work, sometimes we ask you, but we always explore in the name of fun! Because learning is fun, so stay with us! Playing tests is free! We send questions and personality tests every week in your inbox. By clicking Sign up, you agree to our privacy policy and confirm that you are up to 13 years old. Copyright © 2021 InfoSpace Holdings, LLC, a System1 Company Source: Android Central Board games have been going through a renaissance in the last decade, and doesn't take a lot of digging in Play Store to see that is the case on Android as well. If you're having trouble meeting everyone under one roof or just don't have space on the shelf for another box, pick up your Android phone or tablet to grab these board games. It should be noted that finding highly rated board games on the Play Store is a difficult battle. Whether it's because new updates broke the UI, the fundamentals didn't get potted over correctly, or the original spirit was lost in translation, many of the board games here barely pass my muster. However, there are a few gemstones. We've also included a number of great apps to keep at your fingertips when you bring your gaming team together. And when you're done here, be sure to check out the best games for Android! Carcassonne is a polished adaptation of the classic board game from the highly esteemed developer Asmodee Digital. It was recently re-released in 3D, and it looks and plays better than ever! It is a tile-based game that builds the kingdom, in which players try to complete roads, cities and monasteries. Each turn players also drop a limited number of meeples on landmarks in an attempt to claim points once the feature has been completed. If you can't completely frame a city or finish a road to the end of the game, you can get a few more points. Carcassonne also has six extensions at the time of writing, all available through in-app purchases. These expansions change the game, adding new elements and beautifying the landscape, or even ways to greatly increase the number of points you can earn. This all sounds great, but it's optional. Enjoy one of the classics, come back on Android. Build your city and compete with your friends to see who can accumulate the most points! Don't let anyone sink your battleship! This reimagining of the classic game allows you to play against AI, a random online opponent, or the person sitting next to you. It goes beyond simple battleships to include planes, radar, mines, and submarines. All the while, you're getting into the ranks of a humble recruit to an admired admiral. Name your proud fleet, track scores in the global rankings, and use the in-app chat feature to discuss your strategy. There are also arenas, Bluetooth gameplay with friends, tournaments, and the choice between classic and advanced game modes. The design of old school graphic paper will take you back to playing snappy battleship rounds during the senior high school study room. Going against random people online is an explosion; is a perfect example of how the internet can integrate with the old school. Reimagined classic: Sea Battle 2, is basically Battleship with the old school, local opponents, or battlefields. This is a classic board game that's fun to play, but it's a pain to set up and usually requires (or takes days to play) to mobile devices. It's a mobile version of the more boring aspects of the game, and allows you to play with your friends against AI. Offered in different modes, local or online, play with up to four friends or friends of friends. It's a classic strategy game you know and love, but enhanced with fun animations and a faster pace of play. If you're one of those people who really enjoy rail playing but can't find friends to play in person, this is a great solution to take with you. It's amazing what technology can do! Take a risk and go right on your phone! There is no need to gather all your friends around a table or in a room across the sofa. Just load the risk on to go wherever you are. Ticket to Ride gets players to build vast rail empires by collecting colorful cars to connect cities. At each step, a player gets to either choose two cars, claim a line of car express, or take on a new ticket, which causes players to connect two cities before the first player runs out of cars. During this time, your fellow players will try to build their own railways and hinder your progress so it's in your best interest to prevent them from spreading. There is a single player, as well as local and online multiplayer. Overall, Ticket to Ride is a fine combination of competition and construction. The in-app purchase gives you access to a new package of maps and panels, all for a total price. Enjoy another fun and competitive on-board gaming experience on your phone. There's a lot of joy to be had with Ticket to Ride. Splendor is a game that is fast and easy to learn, but hard to master. You play as rich merchants during the Renaissance in order to earn 15 prestigious points in front of your opponents. The game asks you to collect gems, which are in turn spent on cards as you build your empire. Pay a price in advance for the full experience with optional extensions that you can purchase separately. Unique to Splendor on mobile is Challengemode mode, which is based on historical events and allows you to act in different scenarios in the game. Each challenge has its own purpose for you to complete, would be earn points or completing a particular combi card in a limited time or moves. There are 48 challenges for you to address. The mobile version is a true adaptation of the table version and allows you to play pass-and-play style with friends, solo against AI, or in multiplayer matches online. The game is fast enough to pick up and play to get the whole family. Take this fun game set in the Renaissance. Experience all the classic modes and check out the extra challenges that add a whole new element of gameplay and value. Source: Android Central This is my favorite card-based game that I can now play on my phone. You may know this as 80 card game game Sequence. This is a game for two or three players where the goal is to make two lines of five chips on the board of playing cards that correspond to the spots on the board. If you are against just another player, you just need to complete a sequence. However, if the You and two others, then you need two sequences to win. Sounds very lame to explain it in the text, but it's a ton of fun to play. You can play against AI and online opponents, whichever suits you. You will get automatic matchmaking to keep the gaming experience as good as possible. Relive the sequence of your childhood on your phone. Play it against AI or other players if you are in a match 1v1 or 1v1v1. It is one of the oldest entries on this list, but Old Sign: Omens is, however, one of the best board games available on Android. For an advance of just $2, you get a spectacular arcane mystery where you are competing to find the most magical items, clues, and more. You're in a fight to stand against the approaching ancients such as Yig, Azathoth, Cthulhu and Itagua. Although the focus is less on the horrors of eldritch, it is still a fun game and worth the price of entry and cost to unlock the additional ancient ones. This game was adapted from the old school's Old Sign dice game, but received a few changes to make it faster for modern mobile audiences. Although there are a lot of things to do. Eder Sign: Omens is a standout title that is worth your time if you like my favorite board games with a Lovecraftian theme. Raocu to save mankind from the approaching ancient ones. Join the hunters and solve the mystery. So far, board games in this list have been rather... Grounded. So let's have some fun in space with Galaxy Trucker. Build your ships while fighting the final frontier and all its toughest attempts to kill you. You assemble your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money. If you are looking for a new board game to pass the time during this pandemic and quarantine, then be sure to check out Tsuro. Incredibly safe and a very fun game, Tsuro is one of the best board games on this list. Put your way and follow it, but beware of your enemies who lead you the wrong path. When it comes to board strategy games, risk and Stratego are two that come to mind. Although I spent a lot more time with my ex as a kid (Lord of the Rings risk, anyone?). Stratego always felt like a second close. Just like risk, it saw a new life on Android. There are two versions of Stratego, a single player and a multiplayer. Former you pits against an AI opponent in classic 40v40 or a faster 16v16 mode. There is a ton of replayability in single-player mode, but if you fork over a few dollars more, you can get the multiplayer version. With multiplayer, you get ranked matches, a list of friends for some fast game, and the same choice between 40v40 and 16v16. Between the two versions, there are a lot of Stratego to go around. Enjoy a Classic Stratego action against AI, whether it's in classic mode or fast. Unleash your strategic creativity! Take your Stratego skills in the open world in the multiplayer version of the classic strategy game. Enjoy endless games while you pit yourself against other players. Source: Google Play Store In this digital playback of the popular table game, you play a traveler who tries to go from Kyoto to Edo. Despite the fact that you have a destination, though, you will be focused on travel. Stop to take in beautiful landscapes, try new foods, find the best hot springs, and take on other things that make Japan such a wonderful place along the way. The player who has the most satisfying journey - that is, finds all the coolest things along the way - wins. You go about your ship using a variety of plates and then confront terrorists like meteorites, pirates and smugglers. Whoever gets the most credits at the end of the game wins. The game has a real-time and turn-based mode, depending on your preferences. Of course, you can play locally with your friends, or go online and try your skills there. You can run even more games online at once! This mobile playback of the board game of the same name has some additional goodies, would be a campaign, special parts and so on. You can start with Galaxy Trucker for $5 and grab the expansion optionally for another $5. For the type of experience this game offers, that's pretty deal. Join this awesome space adventure as you build your ship and brave what lies in the dark. The player with the most credits at the end wins. Want a completely new gaming experience every time you load a board? Then Tsuro, a tile-based game, is for you. Put your tiles and follow the path that you created while also trying to derail your opponents as they establish their own paths, an extremely fun adventure of patience and gall. Did I tell you it's also a superb game? Tsuro features achievements, local and online multiplayer (up to eight players!), and new exclusive modes for the mobile version. It is another one of the easiest to learn, difficult to master game types and is well worth your time. If you want to hone your skills, there is no Three different levels you have to pit you against before you take on human opponents. This is one of the best games on this list and well worth the money